DEATH THE VICTOR
General Sherman Defeated in His Last and Greatest Fight.

The Old Hero Forced to Give Up the Unequal Battle—His Brilliant Military Career.

SHERMAN'S DEATH.
NEW YORK, Feb. 14.—General Sherman died at 1:30 p.m. after a brave struggle for life. The improvement in his condition Friday, which filled his many friends with hope that he would win the battle, gave way to a warning symptoms which caused the attending physicians to announce that the end was rapidly approaching. The members of his family were hastily summoned to his bedside and remained with him to the end. From Secretary Barrett, it was learned that General Sherman had remained unconscious to the last, dying with a visible pain.

All night long General Sherman wavered between life and death, and continued to fight bravely the hopeless little. Early in the evening the physicians knew that the end was approaching slowly but surely. The swelling of the face and neck had become so great that the subsidence of the symptoms of erysipelas made the development of this trouble, complicated with a return of the long-standing erysipelas, had been once more to accumulate in the lungs and the first signs of passive pneumonia became apparent.

At 1 o'clock Dr. Alexander Smith, a change for the worse. It was slight, to be sure, but the trained eye of the front and physician saw an ominous significance in it. By 5:30 o'clock the change had become so marked that Dr.
Alexander Smith messenger to summon Dr. Green. Shortly afterward other messengers were sent to summon Lieutenants Thacker and Fitch. When they had come, still another messenger went to summon Dr.
Janway. All this time General Sherman was constantly growing weaker.

The will power which had kept him going was breaking down. Not a word of strength did he have left to enable him to fight his last and mightiest fight. He made the last rally of his life Friday.

All the family were about the General when Dr. Janway arrived at 7 o'clock. Another consultation was held.
The family were told to have a glance at his ravaged face.

"All hope is gone," he said. "The General may live a few hours longer.
He certainly can not live more than the day." Then this bulletin came from the front of the house:

"The physician, after consultation, declares that the General is now beyond the day and the night is near."
There was no more to be said. The time was over. The erysipelas had again attacked the sick man.
The family were told to have a glance at his ravaged face.

The General. He said that the dying man was in no physical pain. It was not his last fight, but his last battle, but otherwise he was not suffering.
From 10 o'clock on General Sherman continued to fight. At 11:30 it was stated that his death was but a question of minutes.

a Times reporter at the newspaper

Sketch of a Hero.
William Tecumseh Sherman was born in Lancaster, O., February 8, 1823. He was the sixth child, and was adopted by Thomas Living, and attended school in Lancaster until 1838, when he entered the Military Academy at West Point, graduating from that institution in 1841, standing sixth in a class of forty-one cadets. He received his first commission as a Second-Lieutenant in the Third Artillery July 1, 1841, and was sent with that command to Florida. On November 3, 1841, he was promoted to a First-Lieuten-ancy. In 1842, on the return from a short leave, he began the study of law, not leaving the academy, however, to return to a more intellectual study. In 1843, when the Mexican war broke out, he was sent with troops to California, where he acted as Adjutant-General to General Stephen W.
Kearney. On his return, in 1845, he was incorporated into the Third Artillery, and after his friend, then being Secretary of Interior. He was appointed a Captain in the commissary department September 21, 1845, but resigned in 1845 and was appointed manager of a bank in San Francisco, and subsequently took up his residence in New York.

In 1849 he was practiced law in Lancaster, Pa., and the following year became superintendent of the Louisiana State Military Academy. It was while he was acting in that capacity that he met General Sherman, who was then in the Union, and succeeded from the Union, and General Sherman promptly resigned his office and returned to the army. Sherman was Colonel of the Thirtieth Infantry, with his first assignment to the command of a brigade in Tyler's Division. On August 3, 1861, he was promoted to Major-General, and was sent to second command of the Thirtieth Infantry, and was sent to second command of the Thirtieth Infantry, and was

Died in a Car.
A woman named Stevens died in childbirth at the depot on Sunday, in one of the K. C. cars used for sleeping purposes by the hands on the work train. The child was still-born. The woman left the depot house, she had no particular home, and is doubtless better off in her grave.

Passes the Senate.
In the Senate Richmond's public building bill is thus mentioned in Wednesday's Congressional Record: "Mr. Spooner, from the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, to whom was referred the bill (H. R. 8028) for the erection of a public building at Richmond, Ky., reported it without amendment."

State There Was a Telegram from Congressmen McCrory announces that the bill passed the Senate.

The Lion's Share.
Last week the CLIMAX published a list of Land owners whose farms contained 200 acres or more. There were 173 of them, and their lands aggregated 91,245 acres. The county contains 216,000 acres, therefore the 173 owners possess considerably more than one-third of the land in the county. Outside of Richmond, there are more than 4,000 families in the county, so that 173 families own half as much land as the other 4,000 families.

Work House.
The council has bought of Mr. C. T. Fox the lot running to the back of the City Hall to Irvine street, 50 x 120 feet, containing the brick house No. 50 x 120 feet and three stories high. Price, $5,000. It will be converted into a work house with strong and comfortable cells. The principal employment of the inmates will be in making Cray shoes. The other officers should keep their eyes peeled for the workhouse is yawning for them.

Will Remain.
Mr. H. C. Traynor has decided several weeks ago to remove to Lexington, he decided to continue in Richmond. The CLIMAX took the ground at once that the horse men of Madison could not afford to let him go. The Fair Company reduced the rate of the stables and track, which Mr. Traynor had bought, and Mr. W. C. Gorman set himself industriously to work and several other inducements, so that the county will continue to have one of the finest drivers in America.

Mr. H. C. Traynor has decided several weeks ago to remove to Lexington, he decided to continue in Richmond. The CLIMAX took the ground at once that the horse men of Madison could not afford to let him go. The Fair Company reduced the rate of the stables and track, which Mr. Traynor had bought, and Mr. W. C. Gorman set himself industriously to work and several other inducements, so that the county will continue to have one of the finest drivers in America.

His Ancestry.
Mr. Watterson said in conversation, while here the other night, that he felt a special interest in Richmond, because his grandfather was a resident and perhaps a native of the place. His name was Black, and he was a Presbyterian minister. There were several brothers, and while Mr. Watterson's ancestor went away, the others remained and their kindred are yet to be found in the county. The distinguished editor said that he hoped some day to have time for a month's sojourn in the town and county, and while here to inquire after his relatives. Who knows but what some of the "Star-eyed goddesses" hereabouts, are kin to the "star-eyed goddesses" of the Falls City?

Squire Boone's Bell.
Mr. J. L. Lott, of Whites Station, this county, has a horse bell that belonged to Squire Boone, brother of the famous old pioneer, Daniel Boone. It has his name and the date upon it. Squire Boone erected a large stone and put upon it his name and the date. This is to be seen near Whites Station, Madison county, and is illustrated in Collins's History of Kentucky.

Mr. Ballard will apply to the next Court of Claims for an appropriation to remove the rock and set it in the court-house yard with a strong iron fence around it, the bell to remain in the yard. The Chancellor Madison wants the rock for the museum of Central University. The relic should be preserved.

A Statue of Washington for the French.
As a token of gratitude of the American people for the aid which they have given to the French people in their struggle with the French people, the French people have decided to erect a statue of George Washington, at a cost of $25,000, and it is to be exclusively a piece of American art.

The work of raising the money in this State is under the management of Mrs. (Josephine) Boone, assisted by the following: Mrs. Henry Watterson, of Louisville; Mrs. H. S. Hale, of Mayfield; Mrs. Ross Jeffrey, of Lexington; Mrs. Cassius M. Clay, Paris; Miss M. F. Hewitt, of Nicholasville; Miss Dottie Barn, of Frankfort; Mrs. Charles R. Poyntz, Mayville; Mrs. Lillie Hemmings, Mrs. J. C. Cannon, and Miss Eva Maden, Louisville.

The usual sum received is $1, though an amount is gladly received by the members of the committee.—Journal.
